

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to an imaging element comprising at least one imaging layer and a base. The base comprises a foam core layer, which comprises a polymer that has been expanded through the use of a blowing agent,
5 and at least one polymeric surface smoothing layer, which comprises a solution polymer.